Fed Watch: Fed Officials Uncertain Whether Tariff-driven Inflation Is Temporary

美联储观测：美联储官员对关税引发的通胀影响是否暂时仍存疑

- In May 2025, Federal Reserve officials remain uncertain whether tariff-driven inflation is temporary. Atlanta Fed's Bostic said firms have delayed effects by stockpiling, but these buffers are nearly exhausted, possibly leading to price rises. White House advisors downplay tariff impact on inflation, yet some Fed officials warn ignoring persistent inflation risks could cause worse problems ahead.

Euro zone Macro: Eurozone business activity stagnated

欧洲经济：欧元区经济活动停滞

- The April 2025 flash Eurozone PMI showed business activity stagnating, with the composite output index falling to 50.1, new orders dropping at the sharpest pace this year, and business confidence hitting a 2.5-year low. Manufacturing held up well due to easing input costs and falling energy prices, but weakness in the services sector dragged down the overall economy, while inflation pressures eased and employment stalled.
- 2025年4月欧元区PMI初值显示，整体商业活动几乎停滞，综合产出指数降至50.1，新订单创年内最大跌幅，企业信心跌至两年半低点。制造业因成本下降和能源价格回落表现稳健，但服务业活动下滑拖累整体经济，通胀压力有所缓解，就业整体停滞。

- Germany's private sector re-entered contraction in April as tariff concerns dented confidence, per HCOB Flash PMI. While manufacturing output expanded for a second month, growth slowed sharply. BOJ: Narrowing rate hike window for Japan

日本央行：日本央行加息窗口收窄

- Sayuri Shirai, former Bank of Japan board member, said the BOJ should raise interest rates this year if it wants to normalize policy before the window closes. Weak domestic demand and expected inflation decline below 2% could make future hikes harder to justify. U.S.-Japan trade talks and global uncertainties add further pressure. Shirai warned that while wage growth is encouraging, consumer spending remains stagnant, and Japan may be nearing a recession.
- 前日本央行政策委员白井早由里表示，若日本央行想继续加息，应在今年内抓紧窗口期。由于日本内需疲弱，通胀预计将跌破2%目标，未来加息的理由将更难成立。美日贸易谈判及全球不确定性也将影响日本央行的决策。尽管工资增长可喜，但消费仍停滞，日本经济恐陷入技术性衰退。

日本经济：4月日本制造业活动再度收缩

- In April 2025, Japan's manufacturing sector continued to decline, with PMI slightly rising to 48.7 but still below 50, marking the tenth consecutive month of contraction. New and export orders fell sharply, with exports at a six-month low, reflecting weak demand. Firms cut production, purchasing, and inventories. Input costs and prices rose, though inflation eased. Concerns over the global economy and trade lowered business confidence to its lowest since June 2020.
